The testimony in part of Rev. J. Kekipi was that he had resided in Pauwela nine years and is the pastor of the Christian Science Church there. He said he was in Honolulu when Mia sent for him. Mia said he had great love for him.

He had given a mortgage on his property to build a church on another's property and Kekipi had raised the necessary money to pay off the same.

In lieu of what Kekipi had done for him Mia wish to deed the property to him. Mia gave Kekipi the Royal Patents and asked him to have a deed drawn up. Kekipi took the Royal Patents to Waiwaiole, who drew up the deeds. Mia and his wife were present when the Royal Patents were delivered. The conversation was in Mia's house.

Examining a deed handed to him by Attorney Jas. L. Coke, he said it was the deed executed by Mia and his wife to him, and the same one that was drawn up by M. P. Waiwaiole.

He said he took possession of the land some months after the death of Mia.

A letter was shown the witness from himself to the Mias and the same read in which he acknowledged that the land was their property and that the instrument executed by them was a mortgage.

He said that when the instrument was presented for signature that Mrs. Mia was sent out of the room by M. P. Waiwaiole and the instrument was read to Mia who signed it. Mrs. Mia then came back and the instrument was read to her and she signed it, and acknowledged it in presence of her husband.

He said five dollars was the consideration.

A. F. Tavares was the next witness called. He said in part that he had been sent for by Mia. Mia made an affidavit before him. Mia signed it and swore to the same.

He testified that the land in question was of the value of $100 per acre.

He said that he had gone to Kekipi after Mia had made the affidavit and had told him the contents of the affidavit and that Kekipi had admitted that the allegations made were true and offered to deed the property back to Mia, if Mia would pay the cost of his recent trip to Honolulu which was about $27.

When he went the second time to see Kekipi he wanted a still larger amount and the third time he went to see him he said that he, Kekipi, said that he had consulted an attorney (J. M. Kanehuna) who had advised him that he would not have to deed the property back and that he therefore refused to do so.

Other witnesses were called who gave damaging testimony to the cause of Kekipi.

Judge Robinson found for the plaintiff and set aside the deed. If the Supreme court upholds the lower court the Rev. gentleman will have to disgorge.

On Thursday evening the grand jury filed its final report and was excused until called. This will save the government much money and yet safeguard the public in case that body is required for any thing that may come up in the near future.

On Friday an indictment for perjury was made public against J. W. Kalua, the county attorney of Maui. He will be defended by Judge R. P. Quarles and D. H. Case.
